

Announcement

Following recent institutional reforms at the Institute of Ethiopian Studies of Addis Ababa University, the Journal of Ethiopian Studies will undergo a comprehensive policy and structural transformation beginning with the upcoming volume. This includes a full revision of editorial policy, a reconstitution of the editorial and advisory boards, and the recruitment of new associate editors. Additionally, the journal will see a change in leadership: the Editor-in-Chief, Prof. Tadesse Berisso, and the Managing Editor, Dr. Berhanu Asfaw, will be succeeded by new editors.
